

Big Belt Buckle Challenge Proud to Support Citizens Inn

BOSTON — Jeffrey Previte and the Big Belt Buckle Challenge recently made a donation to Citizens Inn, a Boston-area nonprofit dedicated to fighting hunger and homelessness in the North Shore of Massachusetts.

Partnering with Citizens Inn:

With its work helping individuals and families move from crisis to stability, Citizens Inn is a perfect match for The Big Belt Buckle Challenge, which supports addiction recovery, among other causes. Based in Peabody, Citizens Inn operates an emergency shelter, sober living transitional housing, affordable housing, food pantry, and meals program. These vital services help people break the patterns of instability that contribute to homelessness and hunger.

The Big Belt Buckle Challenge is excited to support an organization with this broad reach and meaningful impact.

"The more we learned about this powerful, well-run local organization, the more we realized its alignment with The Challenge," Previte said. "Citizens Inn supports local youths and helps families rebuild through and after addiction has taken its toll. We are extremely grateful for the work they are doing and for being a small part of their program."

What is the Big Belt Buckle Challenge?

Simply put – You complete the events, and the Big Belt Buckle Challenge will donate money to the charity of your choice. The events are multidisciplinary in nature and include Road Biking, Mountain Biking, Rock Climbing, Swimming, Winter Alpine Ascent and Skiing.

You can do the events by yourself, with friends, or join Jeff Previte, founder of The Big Belt Buckle Challenge when he attempts them.

To remove any geographical limitations, participants can complete the actual challenges in each category or do them “in their backyard” as long as they complete the distances, elevations, and degree of difficulty of the actual events.

The BBBC is open to everyone. There is no entry fee, there is no travel required to be a part of this movement and most importantly, Big Belt Buckle Challenges makes donations to charities and raises awareness. It creates REAL purpose to your exercise through generating charitable dollars.
